Forecast For West Midlands
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Thursday 28 Jan 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Rain throughout this evening, heavy at times.

This Evening and Tonight:
Rain will move across most areas into the evening, heavy at times. Overnight, most will see dry spells, but further showery outbreaks are likely for many in the early hours. Winds increasing through the night. Minimum temperature 6 deg C (43 deg F).

Friday:
Wet initially in the south, with sunny spells and a few showers elsewhere. Remaining largely dry through the afternoon, with some patchy outbreaks of rain later. Maximum temperature 10 deg C (50 deg F).

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
Rain and snow for most of Saturday but turning dry later. A dry and frosty start to Sunday, with snow possible in the evening. Cold and dry on Monday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.